SPOT CASH SHOE STORE

As the top of this monument built of one hundred and seventy-four barrels of gunpowder and one hundred and seventy-four barrels of dynamite, and as it rises from George Washington's feet, it is a very fine thing. It is a very fine thing, and I would want to have that much fun, though I have had as much as one could carry, and that's what makes me want to go it over double. If I could do that I'd never be a Democrat or a Republican. I'd just be a boy, and I would not have any politics and be a politician and talk through my hat. But we have had lots of fun, we older boys; we have had our share, and now we should look toward the other end of life and try to make good citizens—to be happy ourselves and try to make as much happiness for our fellow-men as we can. We pass but once this road, and as we pass we should do all the good we can. So be good, and buy your Shoes at BARKLEY'S and you will be happy.

HE HAD BEEN THINKING, SAH.

But he didn't exactly remember what the drummer had played.

Chicago, Ill.—Two years ago a Chicago drummer dropped at Decatur, Ala., and while sitting on the board hotel platform talking with the proprietor of the hotel, he noticed a man sitting on the platform and looking at him.

"Pretty good, sah," remarked the Chicagoan, nonchalantly.

"Yes," replied the hotel keeper, "best in these parts, I reckon."

"I'm something of a chicken fancier myself," continued the drummer.

"So? Glad to know it, sah."

"Tell you what I'll do—I'll play you a game of seven-up for that rooster," said Chicago.

"Do it with pleasure, sah," replied the hotel.

The cards were produced, and the drummer won. The rooster was turned over to him and was brought to the World's Fair city.

A few days ago the Chicagoan again registered at the same hotel in Decatur. The proprietor immediately recognized him.

"Aren't you the man who played the game of cards two years ago for a rooster?" he asked.

"Yes, sah."

A boy in a white shirt and dark trousers, who was standing near the entrance of the hotel, saw the Chicagoan and the drummer.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked.

"I'm a drummer," replied the Chicagoan.

"And you played a game of cards two years ago for a rooster?" he asked.

"Yes, sah," replied the Chicagoan.

"And you won the rooster?" he asked.

"Yes, sah," replied the Chicagoan.

"And you brought it to the World's Fair city?" he asked.

"Yes, sah," replied the Chicagoan.
